Contract of Voluntary Total Submission

between _____, the Dominant and _____, the submissive

1. Agreement

1.1 Binding Agreement

This document, dated the _____ (herein known as the "start date"), is a contract of voluntary and total submission between _____, the Dominant, (herein referred to as "Sir," or the related form "Sir's," et cetera) and _____, the submissive, (herein referred to as "boi" or the related forms thereof).

The agreement supersedes any previous contract, engagement, commitment, or agreement. boi, through signing this contract, is binding himself totally and completely, without limit (except as explicitly defined below), irrevocably to submission to Sir. boi relinquishes all legal and cultural (both explicit and presumed) rights, privileges, prerogatives and status to Sir.

1.2 Term

This contract is binding for the period ending on November 7th, 2015 (herein referred to as the "term of the contract").

2. Affirmation

2.1 boi's Affirmation

boi affirms that he is signing this contract of his own free will without pressure or coercion of any kind, that he is of sound mind and body and is not under the influence of drugs or alcohol. boi further affirms that he fully understands the meaning and implications of this contract and explicitly requests it be enforced in full, and at all times, as defined below for the duration of the contract.

boi will trust that Sir will protect his well-being at all times and will submit to Sir.

The steamy novel "Fifty Shades of Grey" and its sequels, "Fifty Shades Darker" and "Fifty Shades Freed," became major pieces of pop culture around the time of their publication. The three books held the top three spots on best-seller lists for much of their debut year and have inspired parodies and knock-offs. You may have heard the "Fifty Shades" trilogy be described as "Twilight" for adults or "pornography for moms" and questioned what the books are really about. Here is a brief overview of the first book, "Fifty Shades of Grey," to help you understand what's on everybody's minds. E.L. James originally wrote "Fifty Shades" as a series of episodes on a "Twilight" fan website; she titled it "Master of the Universe." Appropriately, the main characters were originally named Edward and Bella, and the story took place in Seattle, which is close to the location of the "Twilight" books. After readers raised concerns about the sexual nature of the content, James removed the story from the fan site and posted it on her own website. "Fifty Shades of Grey" is the story of a 21-year-old college student, Anastasia, who begins a relationship with a 27-year-old successful, powerful businessman named Christian Grey. They meet when she interviews him for her college newspaper. When they later meet up in Portland, Oregon, he rescues her after she over-imbibes, which results in her chastely spending the night in his Heathman Hotel room. Christian is intrigued by her and offers her a non-disclosure agreement and contract that establishes their exclusively sexual relationship and defines it as one of "dominance and submission." She doesn't sign the agreement but does lose her virginity to him. Further scenes in the book introduce his lavish lifestyle with astonishing Seattle apartment, personal helicopter, and chauffeur. But there is also tension with an older woman who first introduced Christian to BDSM, as well as allusions to a former girlfriend who figures in the later books. Ana eventually meets Christian's parents and the reader is also introduced to Ana's mother and stepfather. The novel plays on tension over the nature of their relationship and the possibility of romance and love, as well as Ana's explorations in Christian's darker tastes in sexuality. Christian wants to have control, likely related to the physical and mental scars he bears from child abuse. However, he is likely as seduced by emotion for her as she is enticed by both sexual explorations and romance for him. "Fifty Shades of Grey" fits into the genre of erotica, and the plot and characterizations rely heavily on sexual content. Still, it has gained mainstream popularity rather than remaining genre fiction. Many credit the advent of e-readers for allowing women to read books without others knowing what they are reading. Getty Images We are reclaiming ageing like never before; a generation more informed than any of our predecessors about how to do it well. Rather than dreading wrinkles and hormonal changes, women are increasingly embracing them by equipping themselves with the latest research, technology, products and expert advice to help their bodies age smarter. And the same, it seems, is happening for hair. A recent poll by YouGov saw more than 60% of women agree that they were either ambivalent towards or not concerned about turning grey; a hugely positive move as far as attitudes towards female ageing go. While going grey has to be accepted as an inevitability, deciding whether or not to reach for the bottle remains. Whether you choose to wear it white with pride, or gain confidence by phasing out those silver streaks, we've teamed up with John Frieda to ask two beauty insiders for their opinions, while discovering the best new products to help you get the most from your tresses. SILVER SISTERS "I'd become increasingly resentful of the 'tyranny of tint' so I decided to roll with the regrowth," explains beauty writer and author Vicci Bentley. "It took around 18 months and regular trims to go totally silver and I love it. The freedom, the condition and the unexpected compliments all confirm it was the right choice for me. I've always believed in owning my age; rolling with the years is liberating and possibly even the more youthful-looking option. I can honestly say I've never been proud of my hair until now. So what if I've lost pigment? I've gained a shining new natural look." For naturally greying hair, the colour care experts at John Frieda have recently developed the innovative new Shimmering Silver range, formulated to give grey hair a youthful and radiant shine while neutralising any brassiness. Its SilverGloss technology improves the condition of the hair — which can seem drier because the follicles produce less sebum as we age — with a combination of moisture-trapping, softening polyols and lightweight, light-reflecting and shine-boosting silicone oil. HER DARK MATERIALS "Silver can be so chic, but my greys sprouted in ugly patches," say Donna Francis, founder of thebeautyed.com. "My mum has this amazing waterfall of silver down the middle of her hair... my grey patches, on the other hand, looked like murky puddles. My hair also lost its volume when I had kids. Long, flat grey hair wasn't a look I aspired to. So, after having my first son, I looked for a low-commitment method for covering my greys and made the switch to a lovely, velvety chocolate brown. I've never turned back; it makes me feel so much more confident." For those who are also looking for a low-commitment solution to covering their first greys, the new Defy Grey range is a hassle-free way of helping to blend away whites on brunette hair with less than 50% grey. The clever combination of coffee extract and GreyBlend technology works by depositing a natural-looking brown tone on the pigment-less strands of hair, which then blends with your own shade from the first use. Whether or not to go grey is, of course, a deeply personal and emotional choice; one that can be defining in how we see ourselves ageing. So when it begins to happen, the most important thing is that we feel empowered to have a choice; to be armed with the right information on how to get the best out of our hair, whatever the shade. And then to be prepared for compliments incoming...Blend away first greys with John Frieda Defy Grey, or neutralise brassiness and smooth grey hair with John Frieda Shimmering Silver, available exclusively at Boots Also, how does sexual domination translate to a SCENT?that people want to SMELL?Anna:Yeah maybe like... patchouli?Amy: So I haven't read 50 Shades (Yet? Do I have to?Anna: Neither have I. I feel like I have.Amy: But it's about like whips and whatnot, yes?Anna: Yeah it's about this rich guy who dominates this like loser girl. And he takes her to the "red room of pain."Amy: Right.Anna: I bet there is red furniture.Amy: They should do a line of... nipple clamps? Vibrators?Anna: Yeah, restraints.Amy: Sex swings?Anna: They actually gave me restraints at that thing I went to.They tried to give me a sex swing but I was like um, I have to take the subway.Amy: HAHA. What?Anna: Yeah, they had all this stuff that everyone was too embarrassed to take.Amy: What else did they have?Anna: Whips. Wrist restraints, sex swing.Amy: Haha. This is the problem with a 50 Shades product line.I'm all for sexual expression (as long as it's not, you know, RAPE). but most people like to keep that kind of thing private.Not, as you said, turn it into home decorating.Anna: Right, yeah. It's not going to be in your living room.Amy: Besides, I'm pretty sure this line already exists.And it's made by the KardashiansFor Sears. Media Platforms Design TeamLast week, a sexy teaser promised us a brand-new Fifty Shades of Grey trailer during tonight's episode of Scandal. So naturally, we (and every woman everywhere) tuned in.Check out the brand new preview below:Well that was worth waiting for! Looks like this trailer delves a little bit more into the emotional parts of their relationship, rather than just what goes on in the red room (though, we wouldn't mind a little more of that, too).
