Thai

At The Market

Kimberlie Wong / © Culture Trip

A Nee Tao Rai? (a-nee-tow-rye) / How Much Is This?

Thais are extremely friendly, but in Thailand as elsewhere, foreigners must be wary of scams. Reduce your chances of paying double what a Thai would pay for the same item by learning to ask “how much” in the native tongue.

Phaeng Mark Pai (feng-mak-pie) / Too Expensive

Someone charging you a little too much baht for your souvenirs? Speak your mind with this marketplace soundbite.

Get ready for your holiday in Thailand! Below, you'll find a list of 31 basic Thai phrases to know for your next trip. 31 basic Thai phrases “What you need to know Before moving to Bangkok, I had the impression that most people in Thailand could speak and understand English, since Bangkok is such an important metropolis. Little did I know, fewer people speak English in Thailand than I thought. Here's what you need to know to keep your spirit on your travels in Thailand: The Thai alphabet When I first saw the written Thai language, I felt very intimidated. How was I supposed to learn basic Thai phrases, let alone communicate with the locals? I didn't even know the Thai alphabet. Fortunately, as tourists, we can manage without understanding the Thai alphabet. Even if you won't be able to read Thai words using this guide, you will learn how to bargain for taxis, get the best price for clothes on the market and ask for directions. Thai Phrases I strongly recommend that you copy some of these common phrases onto your phone and practice them before leaving for Southeast Asia. Kah VS Krop Before you start, it is important to address the difference between the words kah and krop. In the Thai language, you will immediately notice that the words “kah” and “krop” are used frequently. Thais use these two words to finish most sentences. You will notice how often these two words appear when we enter the list of the most common Thai phrases below. By now, you should know that “kah” is used by women and “krop” is used by men. That sentence never changes, no matter who you're talking to. So, if you're a woman, use “kah” to finish the sentences, and if you're a man, use “krop” to finish the sentences. Thais use kah and krop because it's Therefore, it is certainly necessary to add them at the end of the common sentences, where appropriate. 1. Hello/Goodbye The most basic and important Thai phrase to learn is how to say hello hello Goodbye, thank you. Sawatdee kah/krop Pronunciation: Suh-wat-dee kaa/crop Note: When pronouncing “krop”, the “R” is a roll. So, if possible, try rolling the R when you pronounce krop. 2. Yes Chai kah/krop In this sentence, “chai” is pronounced just like chai tea, followed by kah or krop. 3. No Mai kah/krop Pronunciation: My kaa/crop 4. Thank you Kob kum kah/krop Pronunciation: cob coon kaa/crop Saying thank you is appreciated in Thailand, as in most countries. However, you'll notice right away that Thais don't usually respond by saying “You're welcome”. Instead, they respond by saying “kah” or “krop”.The Thai language doesn't have a word for “you're welcome”, so they respond with kah/krop because it's polite. 5. How are you feeling? Sabaai dee mai? Pronunciation: Suh-bye dee my? Note: When you pronounce Sabaai dee mai, you want the end of the sentence to increase in tone because it is a question. 6. I am good Sabaai dee Pronunciation: Suh-bye dee! The 7. I'm not well Never sabaai Pronounce: My suh-bye 8. What's your name? Cheu arai kah/krop Pronunciation: Chew uh-lie kaa/crop Again, you'll want the end of this sentence to pick up because it's a question. Note: You will notice that many basic Thai phrases are not pronounced the way they are written. For example, “arai” is pronounced with a sound “LÀÉÁ” instead of a sound “RÀÉÁ” (uh-lie vs. arai).This is because “RÀÉÁ” are rolled up in the Thai language. Instead of accentuating the “R” sound rolled up, they simply use a “L” sound on the 9. My name is... Chan cheu (your name) Pronunciation: Shawn chew (your name).. The 10. How much is it? Tao rai kah/krop? Pronunciation: Tao lie kaa / harvest “How much” is an important phrase to know before your trip to Thailand. Being able to ask the price of different things like taxi rides and goods at the supermarket will be incredibly advantageous for you. 11.00. All right/no problem/don't worry Never think Pronunciation: My there is another one that confuses. note how the «Pá» in «pen» is pronounced as a «Bá.» all the words starting with p will have the sound b, unless the p is followed by h. 12. Where are they? Tee nai? pronunciation: tee ny 13. Where is he? yu tee nai? pronunciation: tee ny 14. What are you gonna do, na? pronunciation: Uh-lie nah? 15. What are you doing? Will you be? pronunciation: tom uh-lie? 16. Why? Tom ever? pronunciation: Tom-my need help planning your trip to Thailand? visit our guide to the Thai route: the perfect 10 days in Thai. 17. very expensive! pang maak! pronunciation: pang mahk I have always loved to say this, especially when I was quoted absurd prices for taxis, boat trips, or clothing at the market. being a western, it is easy to be exploited in Thai. oare «pang maak!» shows them that you can speak the language (or at least a little. hehe) and therefore know the general prices of things. 18. I would like to go to chan chob pai. pronunciation: chun juh of. oa this Thai phrase when you get on a taxi, you will be able to direct them where to go while or the Thai language. 19. bangkok main airport (suvarnabhumi airport- bkk) suvarnabhumi pronunciation: Suh-nahm-bnhis-wanna-poom combines this phrase with “chan chob pai” (I would like to go) and you can tell your taxi driver you want to go to the international airport of suvarnabhumi. the 20. turn left leaw you know pronunciation: Leo sigh 21. turn right leaw kwah pronunciation: Leo kwah 22. pronunciation of go pai: by 23. Continue straight trong pai pronunciation: The “R” in the word “Trong” should be rolled up. 24. This is the point of pointing the finger and saying “nee” is really effective when it comes to something specific. the 25th a little nid we pronounce: nid noy 26. Beautiful Sister! pronunciation: 27. by wish ow pronunciation: ow 28. I never want ow pronunciation: mee ow 29. have me pronunciation: mee 30.they have never me Pronunciation: My mee 31. Delicious Aroi Pronunciation: Aloy One of the most common Thai phrases you will hear during your trip is Aroi! Thai people love food and love to talk about food. I'm my kind of people! Not to mention the fact that they're right... Their food is delicious! The Wrap-Up: Basic Thai Phrases Being able to speak the native language of any country you decide to visit is important and highly appreciated by locals. I hope this basic Thai phrase guide will help you with your future trips to Thailand. Speaking Thai really helped me to assimilate culture and I was also able to make new friends using my limited Thai language skills. Do you want to be a travel blogger?
