Or maybe there was a non-UK facial lifting in the Infotainment CX-3 on the time of the CX-30 by 2020 and maybe in the CX-5? What do you think about that? Your Mazda Connect will detect your smartphone and you will only have to follow the on-screen instructions that are displayed on the Mazda Connect screen from your device. There are three ways to access Android Auto: the first and the simplest is to hold down the Start button next to the main control until the Android Auto user interface appears on the Mazda Connect screen. From the Mazda Connect home screen you can also tilt the forward knob to highlight the Android Auto icon in the upper left corner and then press the control down to select. We will weigh everything ^À «Good to know that it is available. Photo: Mazdaapple Carplay and the Integration of Android Auto will be possible in the new 2019 CX-9, as well as in the other new 2019 models that will arrive at the next period (except the MX-5, which has it as a choice). Related But Mazda will also make it possible for owners from some oldest Mazda models, starting in 2014, to get the technology installed on their cars! This is still not a common option that is offered in the industry, and represents an intelligent Mazda movement to jump back to the vanguard in the field of connectivity. Two birds of a shot, as it is said! -> Install the SD card on Android2014 Mazda 3 Android car Install me I wondered if Android Auto is compatible as an application in the connection system? Thanks for the excellent links. The Android site lists CX-3 2020 onwards as compatible that seems strange. To do so, click here now, with the car parked and the parking brake inserted, connect your Android device to the USB port marked by the icon of a smartphone and follow the instructions on the phone (you will have to grant permissions). Another way is from the Mazda Connect home screen: Turn the rotary pushbutton to highlight the apps, press down to select, then ³ to highlight Android Auto and press down to select. If not, it is available as an accessory (USB cables from the rear of the infotainment unit to a new ³ USB stick and ³ to the version ³ the operating system) from a Mazda dealer. The Mazda.
